NO. 94.

MRS. J. S. CARPENTER.

A gentle, loving spirit left its frail body when that of Mrs. Mattie Carpenter took its flight to the house of many mansions. We who have known and loved her and have seen her in all the different phases of life, sorrowfully realize our loss, but mingled with this feeling is one of joy for what she has gained. As a girl her lovely character drew around her a host of friends and there are many who will never forget the happy hours spent in her father's hospitable home at "Peyton's Well." Her married life was quiet and retiring and it was in her home that the fine qualities of mind and heart were developed. One beautiful characteristic of her life was her steadfast and devoted friendship—how loyal she was to those whom she loved and how freely she gave them her heart's purest affection. Husband and children mourn the loss of a faithful wife and tender mother and very precious will be her memory to the relatives and friends who loved her so well.

"Green be the grave above thee,
Friend of my girlhood days,
None knew thee but to love thee
None named thee but to praise."

A FRIEND.

BE it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be embodied in the minutes of this lodge and a copy be published in the INTERIOR JOURNAL and a transcript sent to the widow.

We, the undersigned special committee do hereby subscribe our names this, 28th day of December, 1905.

John S. Wise is responsible for a story of a banquet of humorists at which one man refused so much as to smile at the best jokes which were offered.

"Why don't you laugh, man?" one of the party remonstrated.

"How can I laugh when I remember that every time I breathe some one passes into the Great Beyond."

The humorist looked at the gloomy one a moment, then remarked:

"Did you ever try cloves?"

A Bargain.

Try it. Sold by G. L. Penny, Stanford, and C. W. Adams, Hustonsville, at 50c and $1. Money back if it fails.

It will interest all readers of the Interior Journal to hear, that at last a genuine cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Headache and Biliousness, has been found in Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin. It is a pleasant, tonic purifying syrup, with a mild action and no bad after-effects. Sold by G. L. Penny, Stanford, and C. W. Adams, Hustonsville, at 50c and $1. Money back if it fails.

"A Charleston woman has shot her husband because he would not give her a kiss."

"Oh, well he is better off."

"How so?"

"Well, if he had given her a kiss the next thing would have been a new bonnet."

Smith—Wasn't the audience shocked when the speaker presented the naked truth?

Jones—No. You see he clothed it in pretty warm language.

Mrs. Whitt Writes Entertainingly From Her New Home In The West.

STROUD, OKLA., DEC. 29.—I will, according to promise, write a letter to the I. J. in regard to our new Western home. We left Crab Orchard Nov. 8th and did not arrive here until the evening of the 12th. We were delayed by a wreck just ahead of us in Arkansas, which made us late. Upon arriving we found this a very prosperous town of 2,500 inhabitants. The climate is fine. Have not had any cold weather since we have been here. We had worse weather before we left Kentucky than we have had here. But very few have killed hogs, the weather not being cold enough to keep the meat.

Cotton is the principal product, there being more money in cotton than any thing else. Vegetables do well. Every body raises two crops. The cotton is not all picked yet. Some fields are white, while some have been picked two or three times. Cotton pickers get from $1 to $1.25 per 100 pounds. Everything brings a good price. Cotton is worth $3.50 to $4 per 100 pounds in the seed, corn 30 to 35c per bushel, best grade of flour $2.40 per 100 pounds, potatoes $1.20 per bushel, meat sugar, coffee, lard and other groceries are about the same as in Kentucky. There is lots of game here, such as wild ducks, turkeys, jack rabbits, quail, squirrel, some few deer and wolves. Louis and John Turnbull, old Lincoln county boys, took a hunting trip to the Creek Nation to a large lake of 160 acres, and killed nine ducks, one turkey and crippled a deer, but of course they let the big game get away.

I have heard this country spoken of as being very windy. I do not see any difference in it and Kentucky, only "so much nicer weather, and I never met nicer, more social people in my life. It has also been said that this is a heathen country. There are five churches in town and in the country there are no churches, but all the school houses are built to be used for devotional services.

The general health of the people is good, except in the lowlands, where it overflows, and where there is malaria and chills. Louis said they had to kill a man to start a grave yard. We are still living in town but have bought a farm and will move to it Tuesday. E. O. Singleton and family have rented a farm and will try raising cotton.

Indians are very numerous here but they are civilized. Some are highly educated. They have a school at Sac & Fox. It is amusing to see the Indian women with their babes on a board or plank under their arms and when the babes get older they fasten them on their backs. They all go bare headed and none of them will work. Some of the old men wear rings in their ears and nose.

We have rural routes here. Everything is up to date for a new country. As it has been settled only eight years, the houses are not very good in the country, except the ones very recently built. The people who came here at the opening of the country built huts to hold their land and not many have built and where you see a new house you will see a cabin nearby where they had first lived.

This is said to be a great fruit country, but for the last two years it has been a failure on account of the extremely cold weather. The winters as a general thing are very mild but last winter is said to have been the worst since the opening of the country. Peanuts grow fine here. Nearly every one raises them and they sell at $1 per bushel, eggs are 25c per dozen and butter 20 and 25c. Cream sells by the pound. They use cream separators and sell the cream at 20 and 22c per pound.

This is a fine day. It looks like one of our spring days in Kentucky. I wish all of my friends a happy New Year.

MRS. LEWIS WHITT.

Contracted Chronic Diarrhoea While in the Philippines.

"While with the U. S. Army in the Philippines, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. I suffered severely from this terrible disease for over three years and tried the prescriptions of numerous physicians but found nothing that did me any good until I tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, two small bottles of which entirely cured me and I have since had no return of the disease."

The marriage rate is higher in England than elsewhere, being 15 per 1,000. In most other countries it varies from 7 to 10 per 1,000. The highest birth rate, according to a volume of statistics referring chiefly to foreign countries, is used by the British Board of Trade, is in Roumania—39 per 1,000. That country also has the highest death rate, 27.7 per 1,000. The lowest marriage rate is in Sweden, where it is 9 per 1,000.
